

UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS
FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

-----
CAITLIN BRICE, et al.,

No. 23-15103

Plaintiff-Appellees,

v.

ALFRED GONZALEZ,

OPPOSITION TO MOTION TO DISMISS

Objector-Appellant.

The motion is hasty and moot because the tracking shows that the other court did not yet post the payment even tho they got it bright and early on February 21. Movants forget that people get an extra three days for mailing, and that the Post Office isn't as fast as before. They should take a breather, relax for a day or two, and give some time for the court peeps to process the payment. Instead of having their private investigator stalk me and send me stuff, they should have had him call the clerk and see what's up before fribbling and vexing.

If those locals at the other court don't process the payment in a few days, maybe the private eye or the attorneys can be so kind and call the court for us and check on what the delay might be.

So because I paid the fee to the right place, this court ought to deny their pettifogging motion.

In the future, I hope the attorneys - who didn't get permission or even tell their clients (the named plaintiffs) that they were filing a motion to dismiss - use email to send me stuff rather than having that private dick dog me around and scare my kinsfolk.
